

Senior Django Backend Lead Europe

Description

â About us â Photoroom was launched in 2020 after getting accepted into Y Combinator and, over the past 4 years, has become the world's most popular AI photo editor. Our mission is clear: to elevate businesses through amazing photography. Photroom puts the power of great images into more people's hands through our powerful and innovative features, from our best-in-class background remover to our generative AI model and tools: AI Images, AI Backgrounds and Shadows, AI Expand, and many more. Processing over 5 billion images a year and downloaded over 150 million times, Photroom is now the world's #1 AI photo-editing app, available across mobile, web, and via an API in over 180 countries. We are at an exciting stage of our journey, having successfully raised our Series B and looking to scale to $100M ARR in 2024. Photroom is a profitable, remote-friendly company headquartered in Paris with a global team of over 50 world-class deep learning, product, and marketing experts with backgrounds at the world's leading companies. We are a diverse team of entrepreneurs building for entrepreneurs.

TL;DRâ PhotRoom is seeking a talented Backend Engineer (she/her, he/him, they/them) with technical and people leadership skills to join our team. Leading a team of 2 people, you will work on a backend millions of users rely on: up to 300 QPS, 900 GB PostgreSQL DB, and 1000s of TB of content. Working hand in hand with the mobile & web team, your impact will be tremendous. It is the opportunity to work on the number one GenAI image editor and an app downloaded more than 150+ million times, solve complex backend challenges, and make a decisive difference to our users.

â 90kâ120kâ* depending on experience + Stock-Options/BSPCEââ We are flexible: you can work from anywhere in Europe and come once a month to Paris (fully reimbursed), or come to the office more often.

â We offer substantial support for relocation (up to 10kâ), including finding an apartment in Paris and supporting you with the visa procedure.

â We currently sponsor visas for individuals relocating to France or already based here. We are unable to sponsor visas for remote positions outside of France at this time.

â Technology - new MacBook Pro, monitor, keyboard, etc.

â Socials - Biannual company retreats, weekly Happy Hour & Game Time â Photroom is an international team and we work in English. We offer language lessons for those who need them (English & French).

*We can go higher for outstanding profiles and adapt to the cost of living if it is higher than in Paris.

â About the role â You will provide technical leadership as well as manage the team: one senior full time + one senior part time (and growing) You will have ownership of the backend: used by millions of users to sync their content across apps and share it across devices. You provide technical leadership and guidance to the backend development team, defining technical vision and roadmap for the backend infrastructure. You will own your work from A to Z: it goes from working on the architecture & coding features to monitoring releases' performance (we use Datadog). You will get fast feedback from our users and will iterate quickly (we update the backend several times a week). You will follow the usage of the product and make decisions based on that. Collaborate with cross-functional teams (e.g., product, front-end) to deliver seamless user experiences. You will work within a small multicultural team composed of ~65, friendly & committed folks.

â About you â Main requirement: you have actively participated in scaling a Django codebase to a similar throughput than ours or above (see above for the numbers) You have 5+ years of experience in backend development. Part of it is with Django and/or Django Rest Framework. You have a track record of managing teams to an exceptionally high level of performance. You have experience working with a relational database at scale, designing schemas, and running migrations with minimal downtime. You have a hands-on experience with a PostgreSQL/MySQL
