

Senior Product Engineer

Description

About Quote VelocityQuote Velocity is a technology company that specializes in customer acquisition within the insurance market. We develop scalable products that enhance the shopping journey for consumers and drive customer growth for our clients. We connect people with people and help them meet their needs through personalized experiences that resonate with our clients and customers. Our commitment is to excellence and great work.

About the RoleWe are seeking a Senior Product Engineer to play a vital role in building and maintaining scalable custom applications that enhance our products for consumers, clients, and employees. Utilize your expertise in product development and engineering, leveraging PHP/Laravel Nova to ensure exceptional system architecture, security, and reliability. Collaborate closely with marketing and design teams and make valuable contributions to our project success. If you are a highly skilled engineer with a passion for delivering quality products and a commitment to personal growth, we await you!

LocationThis is a remote position. You would need to be available within our core working hours of 0900 - 1200 EST to ensure sufficient cross-over with the team.

A day in the life

- Lead the development and maintenance of custom applications / features as a Senior Product Engineer.
- Engage in end-to-end development processes, including requirements gathering, coding, testing, and deployment. Review open pull requests, provide feedback, and follow up on active conversations in the pursuit of learning, teaching, and delivering a high quality product.
- Utilize expertise in software engineering and database architecture, particularly in PHP/Laravel Nova, Vue 3, and MySQL.
- Collaborate closely with other teams to ensure product usability, performance, security, and reliability.
- Monitor real-time errors, prioritize, and promptly address unhandled exceptions.

Who you are

- A SENIOR level engineer fluent in building and maintaining custom applications.
- Previous experience in product development on a team or experience developing your own products.
- Expertise in database architecture, PHP, Laravel ecosystem (Nova, Vapor, Forge, etc.), AWS, distributed and concurrent application architecture.
- Understanding of when to prioritize building things correctly versus building them quickly.
- Proactive problem solver with ability to identify and address technical architecture challenges.
- Interest or experience in AI and model training.
- Commitment to personal growth and continuous self-development.
- Team player with excellent communication and collaboration skills.

If you are a highly skilled Senior Product Engineer looking for an exciting opportunity to make an impact, we await you!
