

Golang Developer

Description

About Recorded Future: Recorded Future's PFI team delivers data-driven intelligence to help clients prevent financial fraud before it happens. Our platform offers unparalleled coverage, enabling clients to identify compromised financial assets, receive daily alerts about new compromises, investigate fraud incidents and suspicious chargeback claims, and maintain real-time visibility into corporate exposure. Position Overview: We are seeking talented Golang Developers to join our PFI product team. As part of our team, you will actively contribute to the development of new features, enhance data collections, and integrate our product with various external services. This is an exciting opportunity to work on innovative solutions that combat financial fraud. What you'll do as the Golang Developer: Build scalable, highly available, robust systems and ensure their continuous delivery. Work as part of a cluster and within a cross-functional team. Take part in the whole feature development process — from the inception of ideas to deployment and maintenance. We suggest submitting a small portfolio, or at least a code sample as proof of this experience. Able to log time spent against the correct tickets and help maintain a strong degree of team efficiency. Prepare a development plan, defend it, code it, ship it, own it! What you'll bring as the Golang Developer: Apache Kafka, Golang, NoSQL, Elastic, MongoDB, Redis. A Bachelor's Degree in Computer Science or a related field of study, or some other similar level of educational background, is preferred. What we'd love to see: Frameworks: Beautiful Soup: We called him Tortoise because he taught us Scrapy | A Fast and Powerful Scraping and Web Crawling Framework. Scraping Framework for Golang, Python/Java, GitLab CI/CD, Docker /Kubernetes.
